

EASTERN STATES SWEEPED BY FLAMES

FOREST, BRUSH FIRES DESTROY PROPERTY AND RENDER MANY HOMELESS

NEW YORK, May 5.—Fire to day took a terrific toll in far Eastern states, dispatches to International News Service reporting millions of dollars worth of property destroyed.

At Nashua, N. H., more than 200 homes and several manufacturing plants were burned in a fire that swept the southeastern section of the city. Four persons were reported missing. Property loss was estimated at from two to five million dollars.

On Staten Island, New York, three disastrous brush fires destroyed property worth $600,000. On Long Island, New York, brush fires destroyed many homes with a property loss of $250,000.

Seven counties in New Jersey were ravaged by flames. Rich pine forests in the southern part of the state and homes were burned with an estimated loss of millions of dollars.

Forest fires raged also in Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Maine and Connecticut. Cottages at summer resorts near Portland, Me., were destroyed by a brush fire. Property loss of more than a quarter of a million dollars was estimated as the toll of various forest and brush fires in Maine.

Lack of rain in New England states gave cause for alarm and further damage from forest fires was feared.

More than 200 houses were partially destroyed at Oakwood, N. J., in Ocean County, N. J., hundreds were made homeless with the destruction of the forest.

OHIO PEN PRISONER IS BEATEN PERHAPS FATALLY IN PRISON

Alleged Informer Attacked; Convicts
Being Counted

COLUMBUS, O., May 5.—A survey within the strongly-guarded walls of the Ohio State Penitentiary here today revealed one convict, who was beaten by fellow prisoners last night, fighting for his life in the institution's hospital and the khaki-uniformed Ohio National Guardsmen completing the first official check of the inmates.

Several convicts are believed to have effected an escape during the Easter Monday night fire in which 320 prisoners perished, or during the following period of "passive resistance" and rioting that is the opinion of Deputy Warden J. C. Woodard.

Col. Robert Haubrich, who is in command of the troops at the large bastille, declared, however, that he believed the check of prisoners would not actually reveal any missing men.

Rufus Deeds, Lawrence County robber, who is serving ten to twenty-five years, was found in his bunk in a tent in the wire-fenced stockade near death, late last night. His head had been almost crushed by the blows of a heavy object. He was weak from loss of blood and hospital officials said that he would probably die.

Prison authorities, in explaining the motive of the attack recalled that Deeds, allegedly, had turned "informer" on two convicts more than two years ago.

Excepting several minor disturbances, the week-end passed quietly at the penitentiary. A mass was celebrated for Catholic convicts.

While counting the noses of the prisoners in the stockade, which was built to receive the inmates of "white city," which was seriously wrecked in rioting, officials made a search of the tents in the stockade. Two shovels were found.

Workers, meanwhile, are repairing the cells in "white city." Already the cells have received fifty-two prisoners, who have steadfastly refused to work.

Colonel Haubrich declared that most of the prisoners were still sullen and stubborn, but he said he expected no trouble in gradually forcing the convicts to return to work in the prison shops.

Several other prisoners, besides Deeds, have been beaten by fellow convicts, including Charles Hanovich, 21-year-old Cleveland murderer, who turned state's evidence on his "pal," George Williams, aged 68. Williams is now in the "new death row" at the Columbus city jail, awaiting execution in the electric chair.

DRY AGENTS LAUNCH FIGHT ON "SET-UPS"

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—That prohibition authorities intend to take drastic action against cafes serving "ginger ale set-ups" and other first aids to the thirsty, was apparent here today following the raid of two prominent night clubs and the arrest of the managers of each. A quantity of liquor was seized at each place, the raiders said. Guests were not molested.

The prohibition department will take the cases into court to see if local courts will hold cafe owners and hotel managers responsible for serving guests with beverages with which to mix liquor.

VILMA DESERTS CAREER FOR HOME

No wonder Vilma Banky, the beautiful Hungarian picture star, looks pensive — she's trying to check her weekly accounts, in her new role as housewife. Vilma startled filmdom when she suddenly announced her intention of leaving the films to "become once and for all Mrs. Rod La Rocque." It is understood that she believes the obligations of a wife and film star are difficult to combine, and the unsuccessful effort to do so leads to the wrecking of many movie romances. Inset is of La Rocque.

CONGRESS HURRIES DOWN HOME STRETCH TO ADJOURN JUNE 1

Primaries Proving Urge;
Many Will Face
Opposition

WASHINGTON, May 5.—A restive congress, politically scared and burning to get away from Washington, started down the home stretch of the session today.

The common aspiration is to adjourn by June 1, four working weeks off, despite President Hoover's insistence that congress stay on the job until it winds up the tariff, rattles the London naval treaty, adopts the reforms in prohibition legislation he has thrice recommended and disposes of other matters considered pressing.

The work demanded is important, but in the life of the average congressman there is nothing more important than getting re-elected and re-elected. Hence it will not be surprising if, after enacting the tariff bill, the nervous members bolt for home to mend political fences against the hurricane of votes in November, presidential wishes to the contrary notwithstanding.

Primaries already have begun, while congress dwades in Washington. Illinois tried the lid off with enough upsets to send apprehensive shivers down the backs of many Indiana voters tomorrow, Alabama a week later, with Oregon, Pennsylvania and South Dakota, following in close order. The month of June will see seven other states holding primaries; there will be two in July, while in August

FORMER TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS
FACING CHARGES OF FORGERY
ST. CLAIRSVILLE, May 5.—Five former officials of Peace Township today faced charges of forgery and defalcations amounting to between $50,000 and $60,000 during the past ten years.

The charges were placed against the ex-officials Saturday night after John Whitney, a state examiner, and A. B. Peckinpaugh, an assistant to State Auditor Joseph Tracy, reported that fictitious names had been signed to wage vouchers.

Carl Thompson, an ex-clerk of the township, who was captured in Booneville, Mo., after fleeing from here a few days ago, will be returned here in custody of Sheriff Ford Moore.

Prosecutor McElvey plans to make three more arrests, he said today.

Those already under $1500 bond on defalcation charges are Harry Dallison and Harry Thomas, trustees; R. B. Blake, foreman of the township highway department, and Mrs. Manda Brown McCleary, a former trustee.

ONE NEW YORK TAXI DRIVER PROVES SOFT
PITTSBURGH, May 5.—James J. Metzner, New York cab driver, is enroute through the Allegheny mountains back to Gotham today, his meter recording unpaid mileage that seems destined to continue unpaid.

All because of a beautiful brunette who persuaded Metzner to drive her from New York to Youngstown, O., and then deserted her chauffeur here.

The fair passenger boarded Metzner's cab Saturday in downtown New York, called out "Curtiss Field in a hurry!" and settled down on the cushions. Curtiss field officials were politely adamant in refusing to place a plane at her disposal for a New York-Youngstown hop.

So she decided to go by cab. Metzner drove.

The cab pulled into Pittsburgh early Sunday. The girl dropped in at a local hotel to "call up home to tell them I'm coming."

But she kept right on going — out through the side door of the hotel.

Metzner put $2 more mileage on the cab meter driving around Pittsburgh in an effort to locate her. Then he headed back to New York.

The meter read $18.20. Metzner was also "out" the meals which he bought on the thirteen hour ride from New York.

GANDHI IS ARRESTED

POLITICS IN INDIA
REACH CRISIS WITH
JAILING OF LEADER

Strikes Threatened;
Wife Will Carry On Campaign

LONDON, May 5.—The greatest crisis in the history of Britain's turbulent protectorate over the Indian peninsula reached its sensational climax today with the arrest and "indefinite detention" of Mahatma Gandhi, the "holy man" of India's Nationalist cause.

Rudely awakened from his sleep at 1 o'clock this morning, Gandhi achieved his long-sought martyrdom with incarceration in the Yeroda jail, while threats of nationwide strikes and the possibility of a general uprising followed in the wake of his imprisonment.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Bombay gave vivid details of the Mahatma's arrest at his temporary home in Surat, 100 miles north of Bombay. After long and serious consideration, the Bombay government, with the sanction and authority of the British crown, decided Gandhi's doctrine of passivity had failed to hold in check the violence of many of his followers.

Accordingly, the magistrate of the Surat district was empowered to carry out the arrest. Accompanied by a few native guards and two British soldiers, the magistrate traveled to Gandhi's darkened cottage by motor car.

The door was open. No servants were about. Displaying no weapons, the magistrate walked quickly across the room to where Gandhi lay sleeping on his hard couch. The magistrate flashed the rays of his electric hand-lamp on the sleeper's face.

Gandhi, who had pleaded for weeks for the British to arrest him as a necessary step for furtherance of his cause, awoke immediately and without a word. With a faint smile lighting his thin features, he rose, threw a mantle about him and silently accompanied the magistrate to the waiting automobile.

At the doorway, he gripped the hand of his wife, his constant companion and chief lieutenant in his long campaign of civil disobedience in a gesture of farewell. He was taken to the Surat railway station, where a special car was awaiting him.

At Borivili, the train stopped 300 yards away from the station. The white-robed figure and his captors were seen to descend from the far side and enter a heavily-curtained automobile. In this they drove to Poona, where the leader of history's greatest subversive campaign against British rule in India was lodged in a cell under the terms of a statute formulated in 1827.

Prison officials said he was in excellent health and spirits. Every

WOMAN ARRESTED AS Desperate Fight Is Revealed

OAKLAND, Cal., May 5.—Two men were dead here today after a desperate fight in an apartment, and a woman, who thus far has refused to disclose her name, was held in jail while police sought to clear up details of the tragedy.

The dead men were Alex M. Sanderson, Oakland policeman, and George E. Mellin, 32, of Alameda. Shot through the head and abdomen, Sanderson was still alive, but unconscious, when officers arrived. He died shortly after being taken to a hospital. Mellin had been shot three times through the back.

The woman was traced to another apartment in the building when police found her necklace and articles of clothing in the apartment where the shooting occurred.

The two men and the woman were evidently eating and drinking at a table when the quarrel began. During the struggle furniture and dishes were broken and drapes and curtains were pulled from the windows.

The senate will vote again on both propositions, Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the finance committee announced.

GROVER WHALEN UNDER FIRE THROUGH SOVIETS

Will Demand Arrest Because of Letters Made Public

BERLIN, May 5.—The Soviet government intends to demand the prosecution of Grover Whalen, New York City police commissioner, through the head of the Amtorg Trading Co. in New York, according to a Telegraph Union dispatch received here today from Kovno.

The dispatch referred to Whalen's recent announcement of the interception of letters of alleged Soviet origin directing operations in the United States calculated to "stir up rebellion among workers against American enterprises."

The letters, according to Whalen, were instructions addressed to agitators under the direction of the Amtorg Trading Co. of New York. Soviet officials stoutly maintained, the dispatches declared, that the documents made public by Commissioner Whalen were out-and-out forgeries. They take the attitude that the publication is likely seriously to disturb relations between Soviet Russia and America.

All Soviet newspapers commented bitterly on the alleged expose today, the messages said. Official and semi-official newspapers launched a scathing indictment against alleged counter-revolutionary elements which they hold responsible for supposedly forged documents designed to discredit the Soviet regime.

RECOVER TWO BODIES OF COASTGUARDSMEN

HINT ANGELUS RIFT

Another quarrel between Almage Semple McPherson, Los Angeles, evangelist, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, above, is predicted by Angelus temple aides upon Mrs. McPherson's return from her evangelistic tour to the Holy Land and Europe. Aides say Mrs. Kennedy has been discharging temple employees to show her authority, but she insists the dismissals have been made for economic reasons.

TOLEDO, O., May 5.—The bodies of two coastguardsmen, who had put out last Friday morning with a third man in a small speed boat from the rum chaser CG-173 to reconnoiter for smugglers, had been found floating in the waters of Lake Erie north of Toledo Light today.

The bodies were those of Captain D. G. Young, whose home is in Goldsboro, Maine, and Chief Motor Mechanic's Mate W. G. Pratt of Gloucester, Mass. The third member of the reconnoitering crew was Chief Motor Mechanic's Mate Jack Hay, also of Gloucester, Mass. He is still missing.

The three men were believed to have been drowned when their craft capsized during a severe lake storm last Friday. No wreckage of the cruiser in which they set out from the CG-173 has been found, however.

The body of Captain Young was found three miles north of Toledo Light. Pratt's body was discovered floating in the water three miles further.

The CG-173 put out last Thursday from Marblehead for the Toledo section, where rum-runners have been particularly active during the past few weeks.

Coast guard officers said that Captain Young, accompanied by Hay and Pratt, took CG-8010, one of the small speed boats carried by the CG-173, and set out to do some scouting about the Maumee bay.

The CG-8010 with its crew of three failed to return and the CG-173 left its base at Marblehead. Search was pressed today about the vicinity of Toledo Light for the body of Hay.

BLAST WRECKS
FRAME HOUSE

CLEVELAND, May 5.—Investigation was begun today into an explosion of mysterious origin that demolished a two-story frame house here and set fire to two neighboring houses. No one was injured in the blast. Damages done by the explosion and the fire that followed were estimated at approximately $20,000.

A strong odor of alcohol filled the air following the explosion, according to neighbors. It was said that two men were seen leaving the house shortly before the blast occurred. No one was in the house at the time of the explosion, firemen said.

NASHUA, N. H. NEAR DEVASTATION WHEN BLAZE SWEEPS TOWN

Loss Estimated At $5,000,000; Troops Patrol Ruins

NASHUA, N. H., May 5.—Out of the smoking ruins of a $5,000,000 conflagration, which devastated homes, churches, schools, industrial plants, garages and smaller buildings over an area of two square miles in the southeastern part of the city, rose the sturdy spirit of the New Hampshire pioneer today.

Picked squads of 197 militiamen patrolled the burned area and Nashua's seven hundred homeless men, women and children had been provided with temporary shelter and food as Mayor William F. Sullivan announced plans for immediate rebuilding.

The local American Red Cross took charge of the temporary relief work, the housing of the homeless in the homes of public spirited citizens of this and nearby cities.

Starting with a minor blaze on a wooden railroad trestle over the Nashua River the fire, fanned by a forty mile an hour wind, swept

WOMAN DICTATOR OF LAUNDRY OWNERS TO
WAR ON RACKETEERS

Undertakes Task Of Ridding Business
Of Grafters

NEW YORK, May 5.—Holding her position to a "civil responsibility," Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney, dictator of the Neighborhood Laundry Owners' Association, today began her task of ridding the Brooklyn laundry business of racketeers.

A wife, mother and lawyer, she is the first woman to battle against the sinister system through which huge sums have been exacted by gunmen, gangsters and "racketeers" from the laundymen of Brooklyn.

She accepted the position of dictator without pay. The Neighborhood Laundry Owners' Association, which she will rule, is said to include in its membership about 95 percent of the laundry owners in Brooklyn.

"The first thing to do," she said today, "is to buy up the morale of the laundry owners so they will no longer submit to the demands of the racketeers."

For years laundry owners have been cowed by "racketeers" who have forced them to dole out huge sums. The "racketeers" are reported to have been getting as much as $300,000 a year from the laundymen for "protection." The 175 members of the association have been intimidated by grafting, posing as detective and protective agencies.

The decision to name a dictator was made after Mrs. Whitney and others had investigated the activities of the racketeers. The legal training of Mrs. Whitney, one of the most successful women lawyers ever to practice in American courts, was a factor in her selection.

YOUTH CONFESSES
STEALING 11 CARS

COLUMBUS, O., May 5.—Allegedly admitting the theft of eleven automobiles, an 18-year-old Zaniesville youth, Carl Vanallen Anderson, is being held by police here today.

He was captured by police in front of the Central Police Station last night when officers recognized the automobile which he was driving as a stolen machine.

When asked by the policemen, "Where do you think you're going with that car," the youth replied: "I don't know, I must be crazy."

Anderson later admitted, according to police, that he had stolen eleven automobiles which had been parked on the streets of Columbus, Zaniesville, Cambridge and Roseville.

TARIFF BILL BACK
FOR SENATE ACTION

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was reported back to the senate today after the house had struck out the senate export debenture plan of farm relief and restored its own flexible tariff provisions.

The senate will vote again on both propositions, Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the finance committee announced.

A Friend In Need

"FORSAKE NOT AN OLD FRIEND, for the new is not comparable unto him. A new friend is as new wine: when it is old thou shalt drink it with pleasure."

Thus does the Bible set forth an axiom that has lived down through the ages. Old friends, tried and true, are the best friends after all. What was written two thousand years ago is just as true today.

XENIA'S INDEPENDENT MERCHANTS ARE OLD FRIENDS. They will continue to be your friends regardless of the encroachments of the Chain Stores with their syndicated merchandising methods and eliminations of established service. Your Independent Merchant who has his money invested in Xenia has been one of the Builders of this Community. His interests are here and here alone. He spends his money liberally with his fellow merchants, employs local labor and keeps his money earned from Xenia's residents in circulation here. He knows you when he sees you on the street. He meets you with a friendly greeting, and leaves you with a smile.

YOUR INDEPENDENT MERCHANT EXTENDS YOU LIBERAL CREDIT. He does not ask you for cash on the counter when he sells you a loaf of bread, a peck of potatoes or a pound of sugar. There may come a time when you find yourself in such financial straits that you are without immediate funds to feed your family. Your Independent Merchant is your friend when you need credit most. Your Chain Store will not extend you credit. Your Chain Store demands cash in hand for every purchase. Your Chain Store boasts that it is because of this Cash and Carry policy that it can sell at prices which it contends are lower than those of your Independent Merchant.

CAN YOU AS A CITIZEN OF XENIA afford to give your Old Friends the run-around? You, who have depended upon your Independent Merchant to cash your personal checks after banking hours, and pressed upon him many services wholly disassociated with his business but which he was glad to perform, because he is your friend and has your interests and the interests of the entire Community at heart as well as his own?

YOU HAVE TELEPHONED YOUR ORDER to your Independent Merchant and had your merchandise delivered promptly to your door as specified because of a regular delivery service which HOME OWNED STORES maintain. You have asked for a special delivery from your Independent Merchant and found him glad to comply with your wishes although it might have disrupted his regular business routine to serve you thus. You have returned merchandise which you deemed not according to your wants, and found him smilingly receiving it back. In short you have found your Independent Merchant so reliable in his performance of service that you have come to look upon those extra services as a part of the regular business routine.

COMPARING CHAIN STORE SERVICE WITH INDEPENDENT SERVICE is like attempting to compare newly pressed wine with that aged for years in the cask. There can be no comparison. The Independent Merchants of Xenia are cognizant of a condition that has diverted much trade from Home Owned Industry into the channel of Chain Store merchandising with its selfish policy of hoarding its profits in some far distant city. Xenia's Independent Merchants invite a reasonable and logical comparison between the Chain Store and the Home Owned business house. They feel confident in the soundness of judgment of the people of this city and have nothing to fear from such a comparison. Remember, your Independent Merchant—

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Printz, Clifton, are the parents of a son born Wednesday, at Quinn's Hospital, Springfield. The baby has been named Craig Printz.

BOARD OPENS EIGHT BIDS FOR PROPOSED NEW HOME BUILDING

Eight bids for the construction of the proposed $85,000 trades building at the O. S. and S. O. Home were considered by the Home board of trustees at its monthly meeting at the institution over the week-end.

The low bidder was not disclosed but announcement was made that the contract will be awarded with in the next ten days by Ralph D. Ridley, state architect.

All bids received at a previous special meeting of the trustees at Columbus a week ago had been deemed unsatisfactory and were rejected, after which the board advertised for new bids.

The new trades building, which will be situated directly opposite the new women's hall near McDowell Lake, will be a two-story brick structure and will replace the old frame industrial building, one of the original group of structures comprising the nucleus of the present Home.

The trustees also authorized an additional appropriation of $1,000 to purchase more fire equipment, including panic bolts and fire gongs for the school buildings. The board had previously authorized expenditure of $500 for equipment for fire protection but this amount was subsequently found to be insufficient.

The panic bolts will prevent the doors jamming in case of a rush for the exits. There are three new school buildings at the Home. The new high school structure is fireproof. The other buildings, however, a three-story and a two-story building, are not adequately protected against fire. All of the buildings have fire escapes.

All members of the board were present at the May meeting.

TALK ON ACCIDENTS OPENS CONVENTION

The convention opened with a greeting from President Hoover, will continue until Thursday. Addresses by Miss Constance Payne, junior delegate from Terre Haute, Ind., Ernest P. Bicknell, vice-chairman in charge of insular and foreign operations and by Fieser, featured the opening day's program.

CENTRAL HIGH TEAM FINISHES FIRST IN SCHOLARSHIP TEST

Xenia Central High School's team of ten contestants won first place in the annual district high school scholarship contest held at Miami University, Oxford, O., Saturday, which involved tests in a field of thirteen subjects, according to reports received at the high school at the close of the competition.

The contest was divided into four classes, one for cities, one for parochial schools, one for county teams and one for private or parochial schools, and Xenia Central is believed to have been adjudged the winner in the contest for cities in this district.

In addition to the ten students who were members of the Xenia Central team, three additional students were permitted to represent Central in the competition for individual prizes. John Cooper, Charles Adair and Frank Wolf were the additional students.

Xenia Central students who placed among the leaders are listed as follows:

Maurice Hyman fourth in Algebra I; John Maxwell, third in geometry I; Frank James Wolf, first in Latin I; Anetta Price, fifth in Latin II; Charles Adair, fourth in French I; Ruth Love, fourth in French II; Marlan Cox, first in English I; Lois Spahr, fourth in English III; Ralph Bickling, first in American history.

A student of Xenia Central has placed first in American history in the district contest for two straight years. Andrew Frazer won the distinction last year. It is considered likely that all of the Xenia Central contestants who finished as high as fifth or better in the district contest will report at Columbus Saturday, May 10 to receive awards.

THIRD BANK ROBBER SUSPECT ARRESTED

John Ramsey, 22, 56 High St., Dayton, arrested at Louisville, Ky., as the third member of a trio of bandits who robbed the Port William Bank last February 17, was turned over to Clinton County authorities Friday night.

Ramsey's arrest was the result of information obtained by Dayton police detectives.

Harold Davis and Carl Steele, both of Dayton, previously confessed to having perpetrated the holdup and were sentenced on charges of highway robbery. It is said they implicated Ramsey, declaring that he received the lion's share of the loot and fled to Kentucky.

WHAT INTEGRITY is to a public official, taste is to a cigarette—the one quality that wins and holds public confidence and esteem.

ON TASTE AND TASTE ALONE, Chesterfield continues to gain smokers, both men and women. Chesterfields are mild—not strong or harsh—yet they have richness of flavor and aroma. They are not insipid or tasteless.

WITNESS THE STEADY GROWTH in the popularity of Chesterfield—a popularity which proves that with smokers, as with us, it's "TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LOVE RINGS TRUE — Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal.—1 Cor. 13:1.

CRUSHING COST OF WAR

The United States government has paid out up to date the staggering sum of $51,400,000,000 as the cost of the World war. As the country is still paying about $1,162,000,000 as the result of that conflict, it seems probable that the total cost of that struggle may come somewhere near $100,000,000,000 before we finally finish paying the debt.

The loss of human lives, the destruction of our brightest, most courageous, and vigorous young men, represents the most terrific loss of all. If all these lives were spared, they would perform immeasurable services for their country. All this vast possibility of service has been lost by senseless fighting that cut them off before they had a chance to do anything for their country. Thereby infinite sorrow was caused to their families, and the lives of their friends were embittered and saddened.

The prevention of war is of more significance than all other problems put together. If we could abolish war, we could make greater gains than if we could abolish all other evils put together. It is the one great curse of barbarism and savagery that still holds its heavy hand over the world, crushing down national progress.

Let no one therefore speak in any trifling way about movements designed to abolish war. Some of them are not practical ideas. But our statesmen, and all intelligent people must put their minds on this question and demand results. They must urge all governments, including our own, to pursue friendly and conciliatory policies that will make wars unlikely.

They must favor the creation of tribunals and associations that will help adjust international difficulties. They must avoid harsh retributions and bitter controversies between nations, and promote their friendships between peoples that will finally make war as impossible today between the United States and Canada.

MARRIAGE IN MACHINE AGE

A book just published, written by Floyd Dell, entitled "Love in the Machine Age," discusses changes in the custom of marriage. A famous poet said that "in the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." Under modern conditions, before that fancy can turn too lightly to thoughts of love, it has to turn quite forcefully to the question how he is going to support a wife and family.

The author named above thinks that the result of modern tendencies is that men are not marrying the girls that they love, and that girls are marrying older men than they used to.

The expenses of education and the difficulties of getting a start in work or business are so much greater than they used to be, that many boys and girls have to give up the idea of mating with the companions of youth with whom they have been associating and whom they truly love.

The boys, or at least the more ambitious ones, have to finish their education, and when they finally reach the point where they can marry, they are apt to pick the younger sisters and friends of their old flames, according to this author. Also the girls have to give up the idea of marrying the friends of early youth, and they are apt to pick some older man whom their older sisters and friends had to give up.

As to which it can be said, that many young couples somehow manage to marry the people they really want to. They live in small quarters to reduce living costs, and most of the girls do their own housework. Many girls continue to earn money after marriage. It is not such an impossible thing for them to marry young as many people think. The idea that every ambitious boy must spend four years in college also seems to be losing ground. Many of them are getting a start and finding themselves able to marry at a fairly early age.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

HUMAN NATURE

Vandille, once chief magistrate of a French city, left a fortune of four and a half million dollars. By the time of his death, when he was 78, he had turned all he possessed, save the clothes on his back, into cash. He was one of the world's most expert misers. When called to Paris to take a better job he walked, begging food along the way.

John Elwes, Englishman, covered the windows of his house with paper to keep from buying glass. He rode his horses on the grass to save wear on the horses' shoes. At the time of his death he was worth more than four million dollars.

The Marquis of Clanricarde mended his own clothes. He appeared in public with patches and stitches in his garments. He carried hard-boiled eggs in his pocket when traveling, to save the money it would cost him to buy a meal.

And yet somebody says, and so often, that "human nature is pretty much alike." The tremendous variability of human nature adds greatly to the adventure of life. It makes living an exceedingly interesting experience.

ABNORMALITY

We are always ready to praise what we call the "normal" and condemn what we think of as the "abnormal." And yet, most of the great work of the world, the achievements of genius, have been done by abnormal people. The absolutely normal man would be so perfectly balanced that he would do little but sit still and look out the window at life. Genius is over-emphasized, over-balanced in one place. Great men have usually been a little crazy on one or more subjects. Some of the mightiest achievements in art and literature have been accomplished by men and women who were so eccentric that other people couldn't get along with them. No human being completely understands another. If your work is exceptionally good, the chances are you are not quite normal.

RAISING WAGES

Henry Ford, interviewed by an Englishman, tells Britain to raise wages. If this were done, he says, "British industry would receive a tremendous stimulus. It would at once increase the consuming power of the people in England, and that's what you want—greater purchasing power."

Ford said it had taken about ten years to get America to accept the idea that higher wages really increased efficiency and raised the consumption power of workers.

"Now," says Ford, "it is generally received as part of the practical science of business."

To take ten years to accept a good idea is not a bad record. Many of us go all our lives refusing to take on a good idea.

HOW does the speed of a carrier pigeon compare with that of the airplane?

When weather conditions are favorable, pigeons fly at an average speed of about a mile a minute. Under good conditions a pigeon makes a flight of five to six hundred miles from daylight to dark. Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh crossed the United States, an estimated air-line distance of 2,497 miles, in 14 hours 22 minutes and 50 seconds.

The Harmattan

Is there such a wind known as the harmattan?

Yes. This is a dry wind off the west coast of Africa, blowing from the interior during December, January and February. It serves to mitigate climatic fever and dysentery, but parches the skin and withers vegetation.

White House Assessment

How much is the White House valued at?

The White House and grounds are valued at more than $22,000,000 by the tax assessor.

Farm Improvement

Are agricultural conditions in the United States improving?

"Agricultural conditions in the United States continue gradually to improve," asserted Secretary Arthur M. Hyde, of the department of agriculture, in his last report to the president. "Farm incomes in the crop season 1922-1923 averaged higher than those of any season since 1920-21, except 1925-26. The movement of population from the country to the town declined, and the rate of depreciation in farm and values declined also. The aggregate gross income from agricultural production in the United States for the crop season 1928-29 is estimated to have been $12,527,000,000. This was about $225,000,000 more than the aggregate gross income of the preceding year."

Flags

Will you explain the difference in the terms used for flags in the military service of the United States?

1. A color is a flag carried by mounted units. 2. A standard, a flag carried by mounted or motorized units. 3. An ensign is a flag flown on ships and small boats.

Bibles

Is the Bible still one of the most widely distributed books?

During 1928 there were issued by the American Bible society 11,032,494 volumes of Scriptures, 6,484,868 in the United States. The society's total of issues during its 113 years of activity has been 109,096,251 volumes of Bibles, Testaments and portions.

"WE MODERNS"

NEW YORK CITY, New York—We are not an original habitué of New York, or the son of a habitude, consequently when we see New Yorkers taking chances such as the following, we give pause:

Miss Florence Rice and Mr. Sydney A. Smith, who are of Mayfair's elite, have set their marriage day for June 12. That happens to be the same date upon which Herr Max Schmeling, of Germany, and Mr. Jack Sharkey, of Boston, will mix it at the Polo Grounds for the heavyweight championship of the world, and to aid Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Free Milk Fund for Babies.

And where do you think—the then—Mr. and Mrs. Smith will start their honeymoon?

At the fight—you guessed it.

Score another for "we moderns."

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

There is a two year old horse running here at the Aqueduct track named "Lindy." It happened the colt made his first start on the Monday after the Sunday Colonel Lindbergh made his record flight from California to New York.

But "Lindy," the horse, did not further perpetuate the fame of "Lindy" of the air. He did not even approach a record. In fact, he seemed to lose all interest in the race right after the start, and finished seventh in a field of eight.

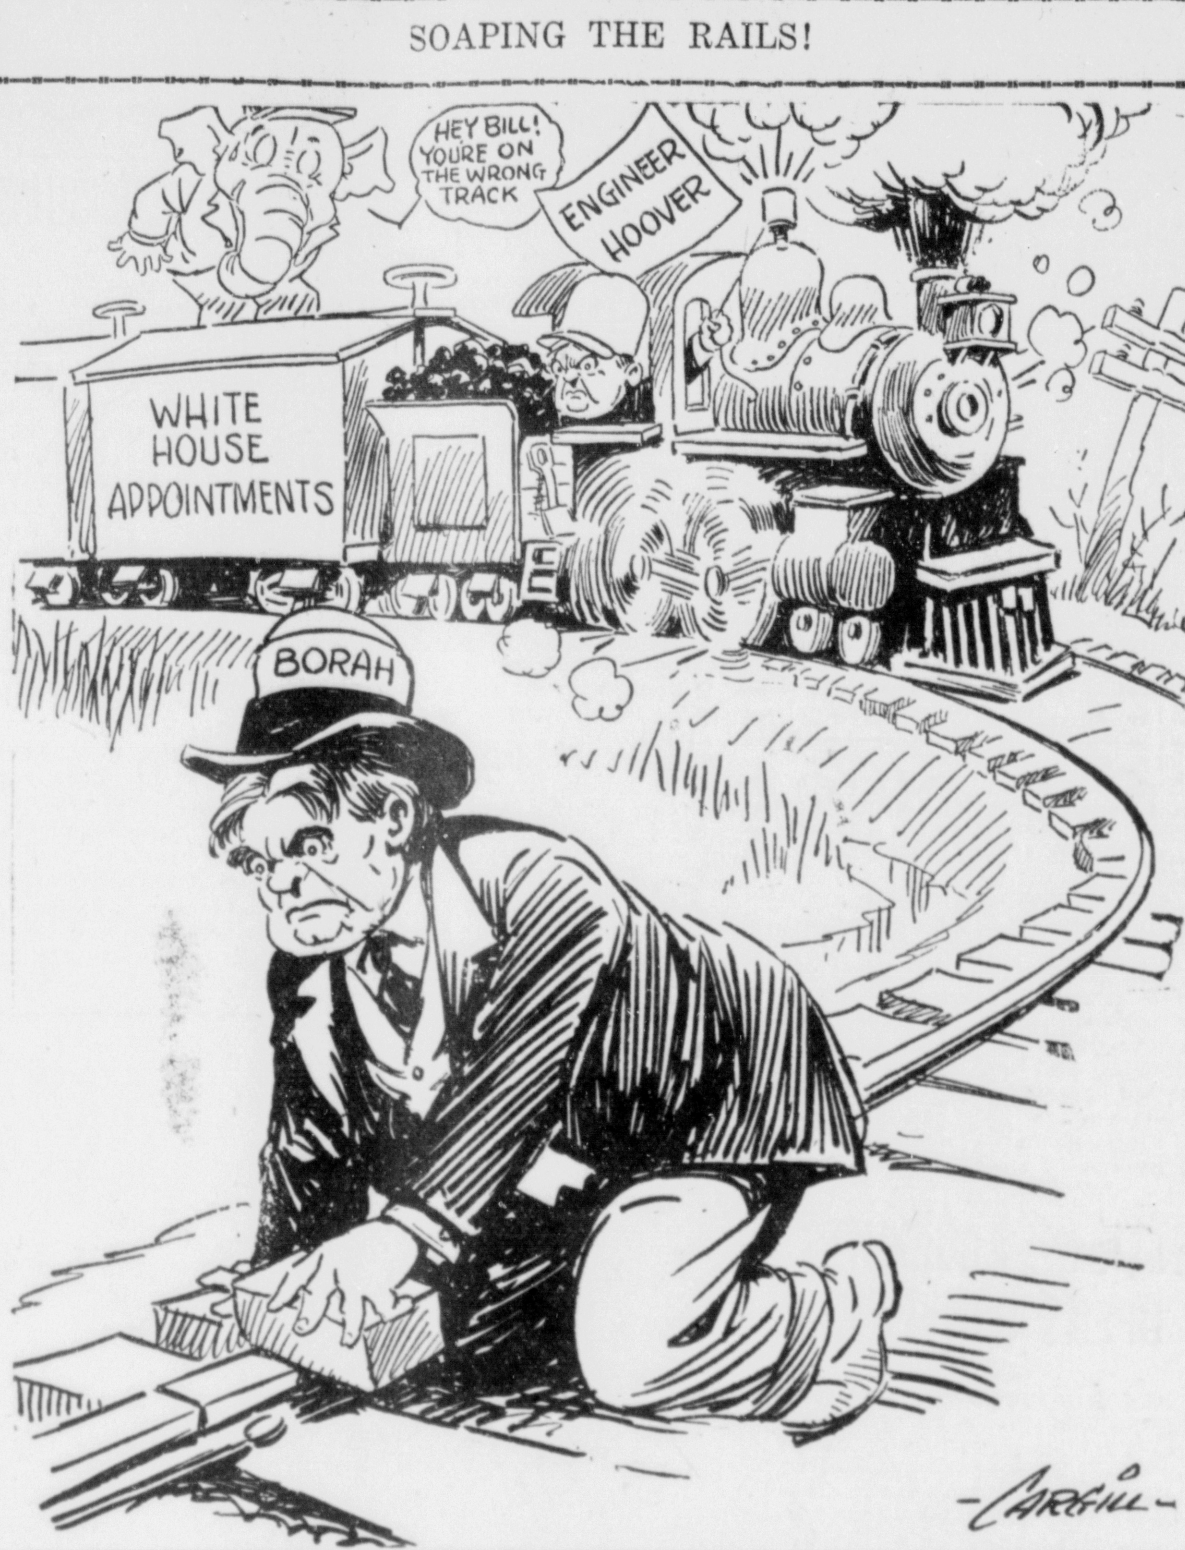

Whereupon "Moanin' Mose" whined:

"I hope when they start at Lindy again they won't forget to put him in his aeroplane."

MORE FIGHTS SEEN IN CONGRESS BEFORE TARIFF BILL IS ENACTED

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—The tariff bill is about ready to resume occupying most of congress' time. Unquestionably it will continue to do so until adjournment, probably late in May.

Some of the time in the house of representatives, some of the time in the senate, some of the time in open session and some of the time in one committee room or another, the lawmakers have been tinkering with it continuously for more than a year.

Theoretically it is this (the 71st congress) handiwork. Actually the job of framing it began before the 71st congress was legally in existence. That is to say, all but two or three members of the representatives' ways and means committee (which always starts the tariff bill rolling) had been re-elected for the 70th congress; without waiting for the 71st to meet and be sworn in, they opened their preliminary discussions of the proposed new rates weeks before they were technically a committee at all, and already were far advanced in their task when the national legislature assembled in extra-session last spring.

The supposition was that the bill would be designed mainly to increase import taxes on agricultural products so as to protect American farmers in proportion to the protection already enjoyed by American manufacturers. It was agreed that a few "sick" manufacturing industries also needed help, but the bill's principal purpose (as advertised) was to improve agriculture's lot.

It is a cold day, however, when any tariff boosting is being done, that American manufacturing falls to get plenty of it.

At any rate, the minute the ways and means committee reported its bill to the house of representatives, the farm states let out a howl. For every spoonful awarded to them, they wanted the manufacturing states' allowance was a bucketful.

At all events, no one disputed that the bill proposed the highest tariff schedule, all around, in the whole history of the world.

If a bill suits the bosses of the majority of the house of representatives' membership, that bill passes the house.

There often is lots of dissatisfaction among individuals included in the majority, but they generally knuckle under to the bosses—the "organization" is too strong for any mere faction of it to buck successfully without a regular majority, of sufficient proportions to rip the party wide open, and politicians seldom get up nerve enough for that.

This bill evidently suited the bosses, for it passed, and went up to the senate.

The senate, as is customary, referred the measure to its finance committee—and certainly it must have been a rip-snorter of a bill; for a majority of the senate finance committee's members are as hard-boiled a crew of old tariff boosters as anyone would have thought could be gathered together on short notice in one committee room, and even they looked cross-eyed at that bill. In fact, they cut it down somewhat.

Finally they reported it out to the senate, and then the real row began.

The senate is not bossed like the house. Agricultural indignation fairly raved up on its hind legs and simply trampled all over the bill, modified, though it was—which was not much, to tell the truth.

It was a changed bill by the time the farm senators were through mangling it, however.

It still remained to be seen what the representatives would say to the measure when it got back to them in its almost unrecognizable form, but the farm senators were willing to risk that; they preferred no bill at all to the one the representatives had offered to them.

The senate was nearly ready to pass the bill, but not quite. At this juncture it occurred to one of the senators that maybe, after all, he could slip in a nice tariff boost for an industry which was of especial interest to his state—that perhaps he could do it by making a little trade with another senator who was similarly situated relative to an industry of special interest to the latter's state—probably no one would notice it, it would not appreciably hurt the bill and it would be mighty beneficial to those two senators next election day.

So the two senators did it—and so did two dozen or more other senators—and overnight the bill was back approximately the way the representatives passed it originally. Thereupon the trading senators

Peter's Adventures

WHO'S BOASTING NOW?

"Don't be jealous!" remarked Mr. Great Water Beetle to his wife, and his words were like a match to gunpowder. Mrs. Great Water Beetle went up in the air, a full body's length out of the pool.

"Jealous indeed!" Flopping back into the water, the hungry lady turned her back upon her mate. "Who's jealous? I am! I'm good-looking as Cousin Small Water Beetle, and I am every bit as clever. And if you but knew it, I am as good-humored, too. I'll bet she speaks her mind when she's home—anybody that's so mealy-mouthed around folks is pretty apt to be cross to her own family. I'm not jealous, not one bit, but I do hate a mother who brags about her family. If there had been anything remarkable about that son of hers, there would have been some excuse for the way she boasted, but I never saw a home-bred beetle and I am every time."

"Little thing," she scarcely knew enough to keep the air in his brand new bubble! I'll bet a tadpole if Cousin's Sonny went for a slide in the slime at the bottom of the pool his bubble would burst before he could get to the surface. Small loss if it did, there would only be one Small Water Beetle less! Now our sons and daughters know how to look out for themselves from the first moment they come off the boat. As for looks, I think our children are far more handsome than Cousin's!"

"Who's bragging about her family now?" asked Father Beetle slyly. "I agree with you that our children are smart but I can see why not everyone thinks them handsome. One the other day I overheard some of the pool folks calling them 'fat'!"

"Who said that?" Mother Beetle was mad. "Well it doesn't matter. They were even envying our children their thick, strong bodies and their hard heads. No other babies of the pool can manage their heads and their tails as cleverly as ours can. Why even some of the grown-ups around here are afraid of getting into the way of our water babies!"

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Duodenal Ulcers

"Dear Doctor: Can an ulcer of the duodenum that has reached the stage where it bleeds (has bled once) be cured without an operation?" MRS. H.

Yes, the dietary and medicinal treatment of duodenal ulcers should be tried and retired several times. In fact, one of the famous Mayo brothers has said that there might be a surgical removal of ulcers after nine medico-dietetic cures!

Dr. Thomas Brown, of Baltimore whose talk on ulcers I recently heard at the New York Academy of Medicine, says that the treatment is medical first, always. And surgery only after repeated failures to cure by means of medical treatment. He also stated that hemorrhages and recurrence of hemorrhages are no indications for immediate surgery. (This, of course, means hemorrhage into the organs themselves, not into the abdominal cavity.)

Put yourself in the hands of a skillful specialist and he will give you the right medical and dietary treatment, Mrs. H.

Miss W.: Just forget what has happened. It was evidently fated that you could not escape, and maybe it was for your ultimate good; you never can tell. Don't be afraid to look people in the eyes, for no one can tell anything by the eyes alone. And you don't know what temptations others have met and fallen for. Don't discuss the matter with anyone, and just forget it. (Unless with a psychiatrist.)

Do your work the best you know how, and try to contribute your share of the happiness of the world by being kind and helpful, and try not to transgress again. Some day some man whom you will love will come into your life, and you don't even have to tell him, for the chances are most any man has as much to cover as you do. If it is something he might possibly learn of, better tell him of it, and say you were young and foolish; but the past is past and cannot be undone.

Mrs. H.: Some obscure skin eruptions, as well as the more open ones, such as eczema and hives, may be due to some food or other substances to which you are sensitized. There are tests known as protein skin tests which would determine this. See your physician about these.

If you are interested, we have an article on Hives which you may have.

Miss M.: I cannot tell, of course whether the deformity of your hip is one that would debar you from having children or not. The only thing for you to do is to have a physical examination by a competent physician. He will take the measurements of your pelvis and have an X-ray made, and this point can be determined accurately. Even though there should be enough deformity to prevent normal childbirth, you could have a child through what is known as Caesarian operation (so-called because it is believed that Caesar was born that way). This operation is performed by skillful specialists and is not dangerous, some women having had as many as three of these deliveries. I think it is considered that three should be the limit, for more might cause so much scar tissue in the uterus as to make child-bearing in this manner dangerous.

Mrs. M. T.: We have an article on Constipation and Mucous Colitis which gives the diet in these conditions. See column rules.

Tomorrow: Reducing Tablets.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following "mail charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are "Reducing and Gaining Weight," "Women's Kidney and Bladder Disorders." Address Dr. Peters in care of this paper. Write legibly and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Miss Lee: I have just finished reading 'R's' letter in your column, and want to say I am a boy 19 years old, and have had the same sort of an experience as he.

"Perhaps I am different from the general run of fellows. I don't know, but I do not care for the company of girls. Plenty of chances are given me to be friends with girls, but I care only for the friendship of boys or young men who are not girl-struck."

"Miss Lee, I do not hate girls, but I much prefer boy friends, which is unfortunate in this age of modernism. I try to be witty and good-natured, am not ugly nor handsome, yet that long-looked-for pal has never appeared."

"What would you suggest as a curative, and could you possibly give me any clue to 'R's' address?" LOVELY PYTHIAS.

I can not furnish the clue to 'R's' address, as he didn't send it to me. I wish you would read some good books, which might be recommended by your librarian or book seller, on psychology. Those written for the layman would be best. Such books give you a knowledge of your own mind that is invaluable in working out your problems, thinking them through and understanding your own reactions. They probably would explain your feeling toward girls—or lack of feeling—as you might put it. They make other human's more interesting because they give you a glimpse of what they are thinking and their reactions. There is much nonsense written on these subjects, but there is also much good.

I wonder if you wouldn't be able to find a good pal, of either sex, by joining some study or social club, or some outdoor group. Such people as you are usually shy, sensitive and retiring in your habits of thought, however much you try not to be so—introverted. You need to get interested in others and forget yourselves. Try to be a good pal to someone who needs one and see how that works.

BETTY JANE: The boy friend will ask you for a date doubtless, when he wants one. You can only show by your friendly attitude that you like him. There would be no harm in offering him a "life" if you were driving by and he was walking.

How To Achieve Beauty

By GLAYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

ONE of the amazing features of the feminine figure is its ability to adapt itself to the prevailing mode. And the fashion in figures seems to change with every age.

In days of old, when the field damsel sat in her castle sewing fine seams, and awaiting the return to her brave knight from his conquests, the soft voluptuousness of her figure reflected the indolence and pampered security of her mode of living. And in the days of wasp-like waist-lines, women were supposed to be frail, ethereal, dependent creatures who swooned at every least departure from their accustomed routines.

Today, however, both obesity and frailty are incompatible with our manner of living. Women want their own game. They want to run industries, have careers, drive cars and airplanes, win sport championships.

The modern figure is symbolic of all this. It is gracefully slender, of plant vigor and lithe youthfulness.

This new figure can, fortunately, be acquired. Intelligent living can remedy both fat and scrawliness. A modified diet, and correct exercises faithfully and vigorously executed, will remedy your obesity problems. It is, of course, a gradual process. There is no quick and easy way to reduce SAFELY. It took some time for you to acquire your excess avoirdupois. Be fair, and give the body the same amount of time to dispose of the unwelcome fat!

Although youthful slenderness is one of the chief features of the modern figure, angular thinness is far from youthful. Scrawliness must be banished before there can be any thought of physical beauty.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlet on "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin for printing and mailing. Persons' questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's column.

One of the big improvements noted in softball in Xenia this year is the fact practically all of the teams have adopted natty-looking uniforms. In former years members of the teams would simply don their old clothes for the games, but times have changed. The teams are taking a personal pride in their appearance.

For example, members of the Geyers team wear white shirts and knicker and black caps; the colors of the Lang Chevrolet Co. are red and white; that of the Downtown Country Club, a combination of orange jerseys, black caps and white trousers; Carroll-Binder Co., dark blue jerseys and white trousers; Critteron, pale green jerseys and white trousers; Graham Paints, red and black with white trousers; Krippendorf - Dittman, blue and white; Kiwanis-Rotary, all white, while Company L appeared in khaki and white. Anyway, that's the way we remember them.

Virtually all the competing teams have full-length white trousers except Geyers, which has white knickers.

Another innovation in "kitten ball" this season is the fact most of the teams have small boys for mascots. We have not made a mascot yet but before long we hope to have the names of all of the mascots. Some of the mascots are even attired in the uniforms of their teams, which is as it should be.

Earl E. Boxwell, secretary-treasurer of the Xenia Playground Association, who takes more interest in softball than perhaps any other individual has one snappy comeback that has stood him in good stead when the fans start taking exception to the umpiring. Boxwell says that the work of the umpires is always as good as the work of the players and he is probably right at that.

With entries closed, expert mechanical touches are being given racing cars at Indianapolis, Ind., in preparation for the qualifying and time trials which will determine the forty cars to face the starter in the International 500-mile race for $100,000 to be held at the Indianapolis motor speedway May 30. Forty-three cars, seven more than ever before, make up the list of entries. Cars are required to qualify at a speed of eighty-five miles an hour over a ten-mile trial.

With the largest advance seat sale in the history of this historic track which celebrates its twenty-first birthday with the running of the race May 30, there is every indication that the largest crowd in the history of the track will be in attendance.

Bowling Scores.

Totalling 2,665 for the three games, the No. 1 team of the Dayton Federation alleys assumed first place Saturday night in the Class A five-man event of the Miami Valley bowling tournament in progress at the Recreation Parlor. The Dayton quintet had games of 913, 845 and 907.

The most sensational performance, however, occurred in the Class A doubles when J. Zimmerle and U. Zimmerle, brothers, members of the Dayton team, had a combined total of 1,259 to take first place in the two-man event. U. Zimmerle crashed the pins for a three-game total of 699, including games of 245, 233 and 221 while his brother helped along with 560. Their combined scores each game were 427, 450 and 382. T. Vogel and L. Lytle rolled into second place in the doubles with 1,151.

In the singles play, U. Zimmerle recorded a score of 557, the highest of the evening. Tournay scores: Federation No. 1—

Eighth Inning Rally Wins For Merchants

PITCHERS' BATTLE SHATTERED BY RAIN OF SEVEN SAFETIES

Springfield Millard
Clothiers Lose By 7
To 2 Score

By PHIL FRAME

A five-run rally in the last half of the eighth inning broke up a tight pitching duel between Ankeney and Lucas and enabled the Xenia Merchants to snatch a 7 to 2 victory from the Springfield Millard Clothiers, an ancient diamond foe of the local team, Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

For seven innings the two teams struggled on even terms with both Ankeney, Merchants pitcher, and Lucas, Springfield hurler, twirling airtight ball and neither having much of an edge.

In the eighth, however, the Millard pitcher weakened and the Merchants assaulted him for four straight singles. Tracy, who replaced him with no one out, struck out the first batter who faced him and was then touched for three consecutive hits. Before three batters could be retired seven hits had been made and five runs crossed the plate. This proved more than sufficient because Ankeney set the visitors down in rotation in the ninth round.

Each team counted a run in the first inning. Castillo, first batter to face Ankeney, rapped out a single and Snyder sacrificed him to the middle station. Payne grounded to Conley, who tossed him out at first, Castillo advancing to third, from where he scored on a single by Kinsler.

Merchants got this run back in their half of the round when Johnson walked, went to second on Cain's sacrifice bunt and scored on a double by Cain. Conley pitched the next four innings both sides were blanked. Springfield got two runners on base in the fifth when two down Lucas and Snyder hit into a succession but Castillo singled to a snappy double play, Conley to Cain.

Merchants advanced a runner as far as third in the second inning when Ruse singled, went to second on a sacrifice and stole third, but Lucas bore down and fanned Weller and Ankeney. A double play nipped a promising Xenia rally in the fourth, but the Merchants assumed a one-run lead in the sixth when Conley opened with a long triple and scored on a sacrifice fly by Kinsler. D. Fuller walked and Ruse doubled, but Lucas again steeled in the crisis and fanned Cyphers after which Weller grounded to the pitcher.

Springfield evened matters in the seventh. McCarty walked and was sacrificed to second. Haley singled to left but Johnson's fast throw to the plate nipped McCarty trying to score. Lucas hit a grounder to Ruse, who fumbled and Haley raced home with the marker that tied the score.

Merchants, however, were not to be denied their second victory of the season and staged a winning rally in the eighth. Conley, Kinsler, D. Fuller and Ruse singled in the order named and two runs scored. Lucas went to the showers, or would have gone there had there been any showers to go to. In any event Tracy took up the pitching burden and whiffed Cyphers for a starter. Then followed singles by Weller, Ankeney and Johnson and five runs were in. This was all but it was more than enough. Ten men came to bat in this big round and Conley, up for the second time in this inning, ended the round in this style. Also he stole two bases.

Merchants again had on their batting clothes and pounded out fourteen hits off the two Springfield pitchers. Ankeney was in superb form and allowed only six scattered bingles, of which Castillo, Millard second sacker, made two.

Ruse, Merchants shortstop, had an off day in the field, making three errors, but more than atoned for his misdeeds by his fierce batting. He had a perfect day at the plate with four hits, including a double, in as many trips to the plate. Also he stole two bases.

Captain "Jug" Conley also had a good day at bat as well as in the field. To his credit were three hits, a single, double and triple, and in the field he accepted ten chances cleanly without a slip. Frank Cain, local boy playing first base, had sixteen putouts and an assist, while Don Fuller, another Xenia boy playing center field in place of the slugging Durnbaugh, who was absent, caught four flys, hit a single and walked once.

The contest was played in the remarkably brief time of an hour and thirty minutes.

HOME CONNECTED WITH CITY WATER

A permanent connection between the O. S. and S. O. Home water system and the Xenia municipal water system has been made, according to Captain Harold L. Hayes, superintendent, who said that a meter has also been installed by the city waterworks department. It is anticipated that the water consumption at the Home will be approximately 100,000 gallons daily.

For some time the state institution has been obtaining water from the municipal waterworks through a temporary connection which was recently made permanent with the completion of work of laying new pipe lines.

JAMESTOWN INDEPENDENTS WIN FROM HARSHMANVILLE NINE 6-3

Bunching hits in the first and third innings for three runs in each round the Jamestown Independents vanquished the Harshmanville Contractors by a score of 6 to 3 Sunday afternoon at Leach Park, Jamestown.

A double by Toland, consecutive singles by Tidd and Kiser and a triple by Evans were responsible for three runs in the first frame and three more counters were added in the third as a result of three hits and an error.

Evans, on the mound for Jamestown, pitched Harshmanville to five hits and limited Harshmanville to the eighth when the visitors tallied a run on a triple by Beard, followed by a sacrifice fly. Two errors and an infelicitous single enabled the Contractors to score two more runs in the ninth but the rally fell short by three runs of evening the score.

Jamestown will meet a Springfield Valley independent team at Leach Park next Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock.

N. Y. STOCK NOON TREND

NEW YORK, May 5.—The industrial stocks and specialties which tumbled abruptly in the final three sessions of last week received better support today and, after early unsettlement, climbed back to a slightly higher level of prices.

The market set up a terrific pace as 3,300,000 shares churned around up to the noon period. The tape at that time was 46 minutes late, and indications were that the first 7,000,000-share day of the year would be recorded. Outside business and industrial reports, as a whole were favorable.

The amusement stocks, utilities and popular specialties were the first to emerge from the slump in which the market has been thrown by the latest avalanche of selling. The 12:30 p. m. bulletins from the stock exchange floor showed that General Electric had moved up since the opening to 78 1/4 for a gain of 3 1/4 points; that United States Steel had won back 2 points at 172 1/4. Warner Brothers had rallied 2 points to 75 1/4; Radio Keith a point to 39 1/4; Westinghouse nearly 5 points to 165; American Tel. and Tel. 2 points to 24 1/4; Standard Oil of New Jersey 1 1/4 to 74 1/4; Columbia Gas 2 to 72 1/4.

ENTRIES FOR STAKE EVENTS RECEIVED

Entries for the four stake events on the program of the three-day harness racing meet to be held in connection with the annual Greene County Fair in August closed last Thursday but nominations are still being received by Secretary J. Robert Bryson through the mail and each event is expected to be well filled.

This will be the third year for stake racing at the county fair and entries are expected to aggregate between seventy-five and ninety. The cream of the trotters and pacers over the country will be represented because at the fact the Greene County shortship circuit meet is the first of the Southwest Ohio fair circuit.

Stake events will include the 2:18 trot and 2:18 pace, each for a purse of $600 and a three-year-old trot and pace, each worth $500.

Mrs. Boroo has offered to mortgage her home to defend her husband, who is charged with participating in the holdups of the Providence Hospital and the First National Bank of Detroit. (Lower) Ruth Jones, former nurse, admitted she helped plan the robbery of the Providence Hospital and the bank. She is one of two women held by Detroit police.

ARCHDUKE HELD IN NECKLACE SUIT

Archduke Leopold of Austria (right) with his attorney, Ferdinand Pecora, snapped at the district attorney's office, New York City, after a bench warrant for his arrest was issued in connection with the sale of the much discussed $400,000 Napoleonic necklace owned by his aunt, the Archduchess Maria Theresa. He entered a plea of not guilty to a grand larceny charge.

JEWELRY OFFERS SLAYING CLUE

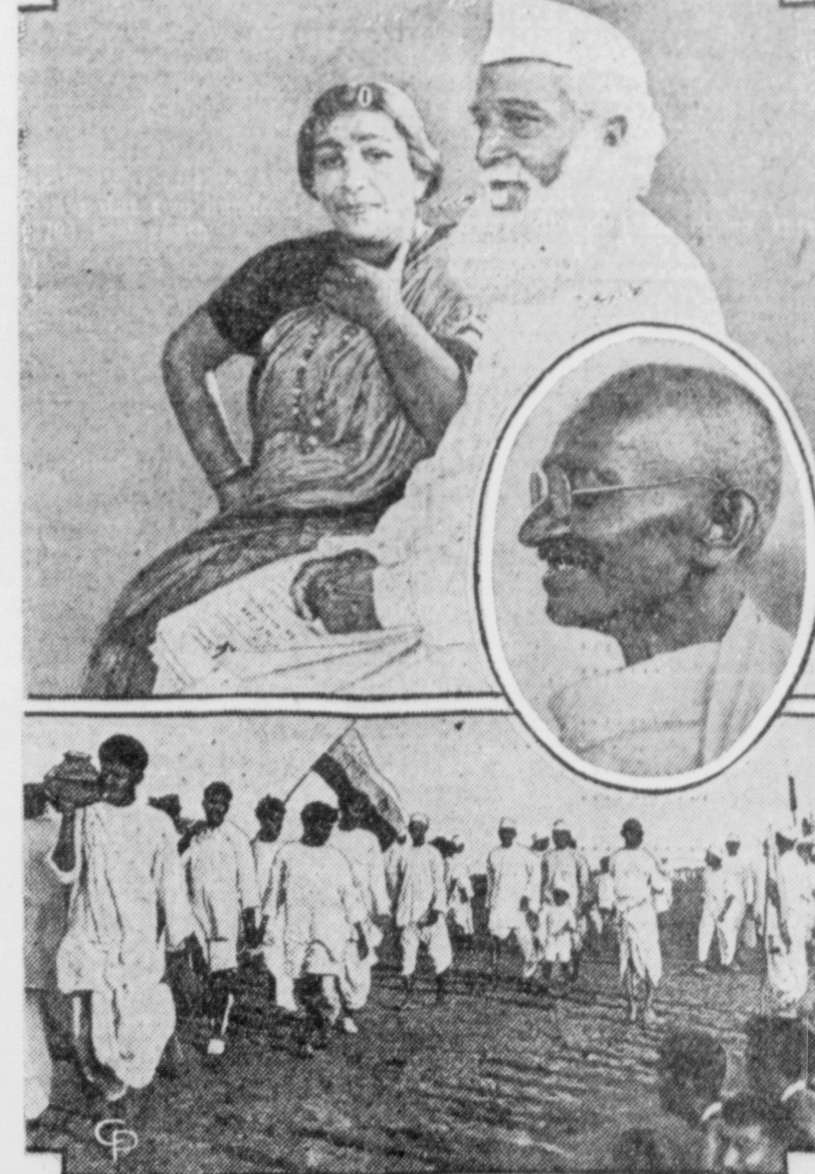

These necklaces, found in the handbag of Mary Baker, slain naval department employee in Washington, are believed to offer considerable new material upon which to solve the mysterious death of the girl whose body was found near Arlington National Cemetery. The necklace, at the extreme right, is claimed by a married woman who says she does not know how it came into the hands of Miss Baker, whom she asserts she did not know.

SCENES FROM TURBULENT INDIA

More views from turbulent India, where the passive campaign of Mahatma Gandhi, India's great liberal leader, nearly has reached the stage of open revolution against British rule. Top photo shows Mrs. Naidu, feminist leader and Abbas Tyebji, second in command to Gandhi, who are aiding in directing the campaign. Below, Gandhi adherents are seen after the manufacture of a pot of salt at the river Manu, a practice forbidden by the British. Inset is the latest photo of Gandhi.

AUTOIST ARRESTED AFTER COLLISION; TWO GIRLS INJURED

Richard Tribune, colored, Wilmington, faces prosecution on a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated as a sequel to an auto collision on the Wilmington Pike, about three miles south of Xenia, in which two young Dayton girls were slightly hurt, Sunday night.

According to information obtained by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and L. A. Davis, county road patrolman, who investigated the accident, Tribune, driving south in a five-passenger touring car occupied by fifteen persons, collided with an auto driven by Chester Parsons, 22 Bowman Ave., Dayton, traveling in the opposite direction.

The machines sideswiped and landed in ditches on opposite sides of the highway. Edna and Helen Shroyer, Dayton, sisters, occupants of Parsons' car, suffered skinned knees and were brought to McClellan Hospital, this city, where their bruises were treated by Dr. T. F. Myler. No one else was hurt but both autos were damaged.

Tribune was arrested by the two officers who investigated.

NASHUA, N. H. NEAR DEVASTATION WHEN BLAZE SWEEPS TOWN

with almost lightning-like rapidity for two miles until it finally burned itself out near the Massachusetts line.

Pitiful scenes were witnessed as the calm of late Sunday afternoon was turned into one of terror. Women and children wept and prayed in the streets.

Scores of families stood helpless and watched their homes burned to the ground while firemen of this and fourteen other communities waged a losing battle with the onrushing wall of flame.

The fire destroyed 125 homes, the Church of the Infant Jesus, the Crown Hill Baptist Church, the parochial school connected with the parish of the Infant Jesus Church, sixty-five garages and small stores, and these industrial plants: Proctor Brothers barrel factory and lumber yard, spread over thirty acres; the White Mountain Freezer Co. on E. Hollis St.; the American Box and Lumber Co.'s yard, one of the largest lumber plants in the East; the Hill Coal Co.'s plant and the Nashua Building Co.'s factory.

In all between 200 and 250 buildings were destroyed and 100 more damaged by fire brands which fell over a widespread area.

State, city railroad and insurance authorities were on the scene today engaged in a triple investigation of the cause of the fire.

Three persons were reported missing in the burned area near Tyngsboro and a check-up was underway.

Three men had been arrested on charges of looting in the area before the national guard lines were tightened. Under order of State Adjutant General Charles W. Howard the militiamen were told to shoot all those caught looting and who attempted to resist arrest.

Dynamite blasts were being set off in the devastated area in order to clear it of burning piles, because of the high wind, a menace to property unburned, as a new terror stalked in the city. Two firetrucks attempted to start the conflagration anew.

A man with a blazing newspaper in his hand escaped as he tried to fire the Union Hotel in the business district. Another incendiary succeeded in setting fire to the factory of the McGlynn Bottling Works on School St. Parts of the building had been saturated with gasoline but the fire was extinguished and the flames extinguished.

First estimates of the fire damage ranged between $2,000,000 and $3,500,000, but today were increased to $5,000,000.

CONGRESS HURRIES DOWN HOME STRETCH TO ADJOURN JUNE 1

the senators and representatives of fourteen states will face the voters.

The controversial prohibition and tariff issues have combined to produce this year far more than the average opposition to sitting members.

Encouraged by the apparent shift in public sentiment on the wet-and-dry question, scores of the politically-ambitious have been encouraged to oppose for renomination and re-election this year dry congressmen who in the past have had easy sailing.

The tariff runs a close second to prohibition as the bogeyman of congressional minds. Denounced as "a robber bill" that will take billions from the pockets of the consumers in the form of higher prices for necessities, members who have contributed to the making of rates are distinctly apprehensive.

It was the Payne-Aldrich bill two decades ago that over-turned an administration and a congress, and the Hawley-Smoot bill of this session is denounced by its opponents as "more iniquitous" than even the famous measure of the Taft administration.

Save only for a few months recess last summer, congress has been on the job almost continuously for the last eighteen months. The last session of the seventieth congress began in December of 1928, finished on March 4, 1929, to be almost immediately succeeded by the special session of the new seventy-first congress which President Hoover called in April a year ago. The special session ended in December by merging into the regular session, and May now finds it still on the job.

FOLITICS IN INDIA REACH CRISIS WITH JAILING OF LEADER

provision would be made, they said, for his well-being.

Meanwhile, his wife called upon his Nationalist forces to rise up and avenge her husband's arrest. "It is to be hoped," she said, "that India will show its mettle and give a fitting reply to the government's unwarranted action."

LONDON, May 5.—With all India in a state of tension following the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi, British authorities took vigorous steps today to stamp out any attempt at violence.

Police raided the headquarters of the Nationalist organization at Peshawar, scene of bloody combats during the last two weeks. Ten leading agitators were arrested and important documents seized, according to Peshawar dispatches to the evening newspapers.

At Karachi police seized 700 weapons and 600,000 cartridges which were placed in Karachi arsenal.

In Bombay, thousands of Nationalists participated in a procession protesting against Gandhi's arrest. The atmosphere was tense but there was no violence. Troops guarded strategic points.

All available forces will guard the Nationalists' monster mass meeting of protest tonight.

Gandhi left a letter addressed to the viceroy, Lord Irwin, when he was arrested at Surat, it was learned this afternoon. Its contents were not made known.

The Mahatma offered no resistance. He asked only to be allowed to brush his teeth bid farewell to his wife before leaving for Poona. He took his spinning wheel with him as a gesture of his passivity.

Mrs. Gandhi has assumed leadership of the volunteers who are answering her husband's call for a band of 100,000 to march on the Dharasada salt depot.

NEW YORK, May 5.—A slender woman with black eyes sat in a dressing room at the Guild Theater the other evening. She wiped a quantity of theatrical cold cream from her face. Then she gave an odd little laugh, stopped suddenly short, said quietly:

"But Ibsen is finished. He is so old-fashioned. His plays creak."

Alla Nazimova..... saying goodbye to Hedda Tesman, Nora Helmer, Hilda Wangel. All those mysterious, tragic women whom she had led from the gloomy Norwegian stages upon the American stage. Fin de siècle. A great chapter was being closed in her theater. It was a strange moment Nazimova was saying goodbye to Ibsen.

Which is by way of announcing that Nazimova has come back. After nine months at her quiet little house in the country. She is fluttering, beautifully pitiful, through that sultry, green-eyed drama of her countryman, Ivan Turgenev—"A Month in the Country."

Not an easy part in which to return even under the elite auspices of the Theatre Guild. Nazimova is the "older woman" who struggles desperately with another for the love of a young man. Both lose. A love of a young man. Both lose. A "Month in the Country" is a fine alternative to the lady's own nine month sin the country. For, after all, there is but one goddess—and Alla is her name.

They were commemorating a sizable even at Henry Miller's Theater in West Forty-third Street. "Journey's End," the great English war play, was one year old on this side of the Atlantic....

A tense evening slightly more than a year ago at the Little Arts Theater in London. This same group of English actors giving a trial performance of the play on the eve of their departure to present it in America.

Something wrong. Grave lobby clinics gathered for whispered consultation during the first intermission. Solemn, low-voiced misgivings. And that hollow, measured talk which is always the death knell of a play... when you hear it during the intermissions.

Next morning the London drama deacons advised the producers to call off their American venture. Such bad acting and bad production spelled the ruin of the great play in New York they said. But it was too late. The boys had their tickets. Off they went... weakly promising to rehearse day and night in the ship's dining room.

A month later London was gasping at the lurid eulogies cabled from New York. The play had swept the town from its feet. What had happened during that interim between Piccadilly and Broadway? Nobody knows. My friend Evelyn Roberts, who plays "Captain Hardy" shakes his head and shrugs his shoulders. Perhaps it was the sea air.

HIGH HAT A RADIO ROMANCE

CHAPTER 49

Suwanee was always helpful and kind. He worked with Elanda tirelessly on her new numbers and they spent hours together in the studio.

But he treated her entirely impersonally. As a teacher might treat a pupil. He never invited her to luncheon with him. Not even when they worked together all morning and until luncheon time.

She wondered about it. Was it because she was engaged to Greg and he thought it wouldn't be proper? It couldn't be that—for everybody went to luncheon together. That was too old-fashioned.

He had just seemed to lose interest in her. Elanda wondered to herself whether it was not because he was interested in the gorgeous Camilla Barry. She thought Camilla hardly a suitable companion for a boy like Suwanee—and felt as if she desired to tell him so. But she didn't dare.

He had tried to interfere in her personal affairs and she had pretty soon told him where to head in. He might do the same with her. She couldn't chance it. Besides, she didn't want him to think she observed any change in him.

Swallowing her pride she went on learning her new numbers and singing them—bringing in more and more fan mail and more and more publicity. Hardly ever a day went by that Suwanee didn't get something into a paper about her. There was always sure to be a picture of her in at least one Sunday paper.

A celebrated New York photographer had contracted to do all her expensive photographs free—for the advertising. When she was walking along Fifth avenue one day she was thrilled to see a huge colored picture of herself in his outside street display where everyone walking along could see.

Her name was underneath it—"Miss Elanda Lee. 'La Paloma' Radio Station W.W.B.C." It gave her a warm glow of pleasure.

Even the oppoling of her artistic hopes could not wipe out the fact that she was fast becoming radio celebrity of no mean importance.

But as she strolled down Fifth avenue her thought turned again to Dixie and her strange behavior and her neglect of Andree. There was a tang of fall in the September air and Elanda was walking all the way to Tenth street—home.

It was unbelievable the way Dixie left Andree to her care. The baby had become so dear and so close to her that she seemed as if she were her own. Sometimes Elanda would remember with a little pang that Greg did not like babies and expected her to not care for them when they were married.

What had gotten into Greg? Some times for two or three days he didn't call her on the telephone. Truthfully, she was almost afraid to admit it to herself—she didn't miss him. It was a relief not to have to stand for his savage kisses and his impatience because she would not enter into them as professionally as he seemed to think she should.

Even her new glory, however, did not cover the fact it would be humiliating for him to give her the air. Several times she had received a phone call from his mother and she had gone up to see her. Sometimes there was some friend or relative she desired Elanda to meet.

Mother Du Pont warmly showed her love and pride for her daughter-to-be. Later, however, Elanda had been unable to meet the questioning in the honest, bright eyes—and the little veiled questions as to what she and Greg were doing with their evenings that they never spent them at home with her and Dad.

Sometimes Elanda had been almost on the verge of talking with Mrs. Du Pont truthfully about it. But she hadn't the courage. The motherly love of Mrs. Du Pont meant so much to her that Elanda did not want to do anything to mar its beauty. She did not want to worry her. She told herself everything would be different when she married Greg.

The Theater

At the Little Theater Guild performance of "Miss Lulu Bett" at the Opera House Friday night, questionnaires were distributed for members and prospective members to sign for next season.

Singers were asked to specify in what branch of Guild activity they would be interested and willing to give their assistance, and the list of possibilities emphasizes the variety of functions of the organization.

They are presented herewith for the edification of those who believe the organization was formed only to permit an outlet for the dramatic emotions of its members: actor, player of small parts, scenery designer, stage manager, carpenter, painter of scenery, electrician, costumer, prompter, making up, publicity writer, usher, ticket seller, executive or committee worker, music, or assistant to any of these.

Perhaps the Guild does not fulfill its function unless it is able to interest its members in some or all of those departments not actually connected with acting. At least the purpose of the Little Theater groups as organized in the East was to provide an outlet not only for the stage yearnings of their members but to offer opportunity for those interested in costume design, scenery painting and designing and even in the less glorious duties of the theater.

The writer, speaking only as an outsider, has been told that interest in these tasks in connection with the Guild here has not been spontaneous and therefore misses its purpose. What scenery painting and designing has been done, has been done rather in a spirit of cooperation and self-sacrifice rather than through any enthusiasm for the task. In larger cities there is more talent turned in this direction with the result that the organizations do not lack for mechanical assistance but, naturally, such talent is limited here.

The passing of the Provincetown Players may or may not be taken as indication that the Little Theater group has seen its best days.

When the organization was launched and operated its own theater in the Greenwich Village section it maintained a high standard in performances and was undoubtedly successful. A great deal of this talent, however, was enlisted in the legitimate stage and the

ELECTION BOARD IS DEADLOCKED OVER CHOICE FOR CLERK

Deadlocked by a tie vote on the election of a clerk, the Greene County Board of Elections, composed of two Republicans and two Democrats, failed to accomplish anything at its reorganization meeting Saturday afternoon.

R. E. Dunkel, Democrat, present clerk of the board, and Earl Short, Republican, deputy clerk of courts and former clerk of the board, are the two candidates for the position. Under the law when the four members of an election board fail to agree on the appointment of a clerk after taking the ballots the decision is left to the secretary of state.

Five ballots were taken at the organization meeting Saturday and on each ballot Dunkel received the two Democratic votes while Short was given the votes of the two Republican members.

As a result Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown will be informed of the tie vote and will make the appointment, after which the election board will complete its organization by electing a chairman. If the clerk is Republican, the chairman, who must be a board member, will be a Democrat, and vice versa.

Dunkel has served as clerk of the board for three years. Short previously held the job for two years.

The four members of the board are: J. B. Conklin, R. R. No. 1, Xenia, and Walton Spahr, R. R. No. 4, Xenia, Republicans; and James Jones, R. R. No. 3, Xenia, and Mrs. Bessie L. Robinson, Jamestown, Democrats.

DEATH CLAIMS MISS HELEN GALLAGHER

Miss Gallagher was born in Xenia October 21, 1872 and was the daughter of the late John and Mary Gallagher, and spent all her life here. She was a member of St. Brigid Church.

She is survived by the following brothers and sisters: John M. of Cincinnati; Alex of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. George Walsh of Xenia; Mrs. John Hoefler, Columbus; Mrs. Hannah Riddick and Miss Mary Gallagher at home. She also leaves three nephews and a niece reared in her home: John and Francis Geiger at home and Charles Geiger of San Diego, Calif., and a niece, Miss Mary Harrington of Denver, Colo.

THE PRINCE OF JAZZ

Writer Finds Vincent Lopez Has Not Gone "Park Ave."—Just A Gentleman

VINCENT LOPEZ

[Editor's Note: This is another of a series of sketches of the most prominent radio artists of the day. Others follow.]

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Central Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, May 1.—Some say that he is high-bred. Some say that he is shy. That his manner of slight aloofness is self-consciousness.

Some say that his sedate manner is due to his early spiritual life when he was studying for the priesthood among the holy fathers. But those that know Vincent Lopez, really know him, and have prided off the lid of his unusual reserve, know that it is simply because he is a gentleman, quiet and studious. It is unusual that a young man, in his early thirties, should have become universally known as the "Prince of Jazz" and kept himself so far apart from the Broadway night life he is supposed to typify.

Lives Quietly
Wine, women and song never have interested the young Spaniard, born in Brooklyn. He has no "bad habits." He has few intimate friends and never has been a wild party boy. He is not married. Lives quietly in one of the most gorgeous pent houses in New York—in the Seventies.

To attempt to describe it would take columns—a huge living room, conservatory with really live birds roosting in the corners or flying about happily. A bath room in black and white with jet-black tub and fixtures, the walls and ceiling almost entirely of mirrors.

The walls in the living room have silken panels with hand embroidered roses in various colors. Statues that would warm the cockles of any artistic heart—and a ceiling with lighting effect to make it look like clouds floating through soft blue sky. Seven rooms for a contented bachelor! Why shouldn't he be contented?

Vincent's father was a bandmaster in the navy. His mother was also a musician. They did not want a "musical career of poverty" for their boy. Finally, they persuaded him to study for the priesthood. Years later, upon the advice of an understanding father who knew his unhappiness, they released him from his promise. They gave him a business education and he pounded a typewriter awhile.

There was later the old story of a lad who ran away to make his own career. Played in cheap restaurants—all the usual climb-up-the-ladder drama. Vincent was directing a cheap little orchestra when Pat Rooney discovered him and put him to work in "Rings of Smoke," then "Love Birds," which ran for three years.

"Lopez Speaking"
It was radio that finally really made Vincent. His "Lopez Speaking" is one of the most celebrated signs of the air. The Hotel Pennsylvania, Casa Lopez and the St. Regis have been the sort of places that have marked his great strides to a "refined" success. There has been none of the cheap night club racket. Theater and concert and radio know him best. Now he is all pepped up over his new idea—a jazz symphony. He is putting on the first 56-piece symphony over his hookup hour short.
